BACKGROUND OF JAPAN MOLD INDUSTRY

After the economic bubble burst in 1991, the background of Japanese mold industry has changed coming out with heating up of the global competitiveness and the changing industrial structure. The Japanese industry had relied heavily on the automobile industry and electrical industry but those industries moved their production base to China and Korea since 2008 and they changed suppliers from Japanese mold manufacturers to the locals. These elements are forced Japanese mold manufacturers to add extra values to their molds like hypercomplex, ultraprecision or supersize. Japanese mold manufacturers need to develop new business including to expand into overseas market and future industry.
